1. News

1.1. 25 July, 2007: release 0.13.1 available

This fixes critical bugs in the 0.13.0 release. For full details, see the release notes. The release can be obtained from a nearby mirror.

1.2. 8 June, 2007: release 0.13.0 available

In addition to new features, this release contains significant performance and reliability improvements. For example, MapReduce sort performance on large clusters has doubled.

Note: when upgrading an existing HDFS filesystem to this release, you should first start HDFS with `bin/start-dfs.sh -upgrade`, which makes it possible to revert the upgrade. For more information on this issue, see HADOOP-702.

For full details, see the release notes. The release can be obtained from a nearby mirror.

1.3. 6 April, 2007: release 0.12.3 available

1.29. 5 May, 2006: release 0.2.0 available

We are now aiming for monthly releases. There have been many bug fixes and improvements in the past month. MapReduce and DFS are now fairly reliable on clusters with up to 200 nodes. See the change log for details. The release can be obtained from a nearby mirror.

1.30. 2 April, 2006: release 0.1.0 available

This is the first Hadoop release. The release is available here.

1.31. 6 February, 2006: nightly builds

Hadoop now has nightly builds. This automatically creates a downloadable version of Hadoop every night. All unit tests must pass, or a message is sent to the developers mailing list and no new version is created. This also updates the javadoc.

1.32. 3 February, 2006: Hadoop code moved out of Nutch

The Hadoop code has now been moved into its own Subversion tree, renamed into packages under `org.apache.hadoop`. All unit tests pass, but little else has yet been tested.

1.33. 30 March, 2006: Hadoop project approved

The Lucene PMC has elected to split the Nutch MapReduce and distributed filesytem code into a new project named Hadoop.
